LONELY CAMP SCENE FROM AN 1862 HARPER'S WEEKLY ENTITLED "CHRISTMAS EVE".

CHRISTMAS NIGHT OF 1862

by William Gordon McCabe (1841-1920)

The wintry blast goes wailing by,
The snow is falling overhead; I hear the lonely sentry’s tread, And distant watch-fires light the sky.
Dim forms go flitting through the gloom; The soldiers cluster round the blaze To talk of other Christmas days, And softly speak of home and home.
My sabre swinging overhead Gleams in the watch-fire’s fitful glow, While fiercely drives the blinding snow Aslant upon my saddened brow.
Those cherished faces all are gone! Asleep within the quiet graves Where lies the snow in drifting waves, And I am sitting here alone.
There’s not a comrade here to-night But knows that loved ones far away On bended knee this night will pray: “God bring our darling from the fight.”
But there are none to wish me back, For me no yearning prayers arise.
The lips are mute and closed the eyes— My home is in the bivouac.

I feel again the mother-kiss, I see again the glad surprise That lightened up the tranquil eyes And brimmed them o’er with tears of bliss,
As, rushing from the old hall-door, She fondly clasped her wayward boy Her face all radiant with the joy She felt to see him home once more.

My sabre swinging on the bough Gleams in the watch-fire’s fitful glow, While fiercely drives the blinding snow Aslant upon my saddened brow.
Those cherished faces all are gone! Asleep within the quiet graves Where lies the snow in drifting waves, And I am sitting here alone.
There’s not a comrade here to-night But knows that loved ones far away On bended knee this night will pray: “God bring our darling from the fight.”
But there are none to wish me back, For me no yearning prayers arise.
The lips are mute and closed the eyes— My home is in the bivouac.
Commander-in-Chief’s Message

We are about to enter our 145th year of existence. Given that milestone, I am pleased to report that we once again have Commandery-in-Chief Proceedings for our National Congresses and our Midwinter Meetings available to our membership.

Over the years, we have forgone the production of these documents for sketchy meeting minutes that only a few Companions would ever get an opportunity to see. Consequently, we created a situation whereby our membership was left in the dark in terms of what our national organization was doing. An organization’s past history cannot be preserved if it does not share its current history. Consequently, with the resurrection of the Proceedings and the making of these publications available on the website, our membership again has an opportunity to examine the programs and progress not only of the Commandery-in-Chief, but also of the individual Commanderies. The Proceedings are available at http://suvcw.org/mollus/resources/index.htm

In addition to the re-establishment of Commandery-in-Chief Proceedings, another item of note from the 125th National Congress was the approval of a set of amendments to the Commandery-in-Chief Constitution and Bylaws. Both governing documents were brought into the 21st Century and were updated in order to better reflect how our Order actually operates. The Commandery-in-Chief Constitution and Bylaws also are available at the same location on our website as the Commandery-in-Chief Proceedings.

Another program that was initiated this year was one to help ensure that the Commandery-in-Chief keeps itself informed of the concerns, successes, and activities of its Commanderies. I did this with the establishment of a visitation program whereby, I or if I cannot, a Commandery-in-Chief officer go to

Hereditary Membership Program

Our Hereditary Membership Program is in effect each fiscal year, October 1 through September 30. Here are the rules that apply to this program. Recruit a minimum of three (3) new Hereditary Companions and you will be rewarded with a Lincoln MOLLUS Certificate of Appreciation for meritorious service and a Lincoln Membership Medal of Honor presented by our current Commander-in-Chief. These two prestigious awards will be presented to you at our annual National Congress, the Lincoln Memorial Ceremony in Washington D.C. or at the Lincoln Tomb Ceremony in Springfield, Illinois. If you are unable to attend one of these three major functions, arrangements may be made to mail the certificate and medal to your home. This program is the lifeline of our historic Military Order and will ensure our noble existence for countless generations to come.

Remembering “MOLLUS” In Your Will

After you provide for your family and other matters, would you consider including a memorial gift in your will to our hallowed Order? Your gift to the Loyal Legion Memorial Fund, which is tax deductible, would be used to support the preservation of battlefields, monuments and programs that serve to memorialize the Civil War. In this way you would be perpetuating the memory of your Civil War ancestors and fellow companions.

MESSAGE FROM PAST NATIONAL PRESIDENT
ROSEMARY SCHAEFFER (2004 - 2010)

It has been a privilege and honor to serve as your National President. At our meeting in Grand Rapids, Michigan on October 9, 2010, I passed our Dames gavel onto Monie E. Upham who will carry on the Presidential business of our order. I will remain active as your National Registrar and National Chancellor.

Special thanks to all Dames for the beautiful flag pin, made by Ann Hand of Washington, D.C. which was presented to me by Florence Stanley and Monie Upham. God Bless our Order. May we continue to increase our membership now and in years to come.

Loyally,

Keith G. Harrison, Commander-in-Chief

I am still concerned about the lack of recruiting on the part of some of our Commanderies and the lack of follow up by others in which applicants are referred to them via our website. We need to be much more vigilant in our efforts. We cannot squander the opportunity that is before us with all the interest that is beginning to be and will continue to be generated as the result of the Civil War Sesquicentennial. This is a once in a lifetime opportunity for each of our Commanderies. This new program was instituted in 2010 with my trips to our Texas, Ohio, New York, and Michigan Commanderies; and in November, I will be attending a meeting of the Pennsylvania Commandery. This program has a double benefit. The Commandery-in-Chief gets vital information on the well-being of its Commanderies and our Commanderies realize that they are not operating in a vacuum. As this program is not supported financially by the Commandery-in-Chief, I plan to continue with the program as best as my schedule and funds allows. Please contact either Recorder-in-Chief Jack Kane or me to arrange for a visitation.

The next scheduled national events will be the annual Abraham Lincoln Birthday Commemoration and Commandery-in-Chief Midwinter Meeting that will be held February 12, 2011 in Washington DC and the annual Abraham Lincoln Death Day Commemoration that will be held April 16, 2011 in Springfield, Illinois. I strongly encourage all Commanderies to attend and present a wreath at these programs. Information regarding both these programs will be posted in the Loyal Legion Historical Journal and on our national website.

Finally, I wish to thank Commander Bruce Butgereit and the Michigan Commandery for hosting an excellent National Congress. The meeting room was great, the Michigan-themed reception and banquet were first-class, and the four historic programs and commemorations comprising the tour were outstanding. I am certain that James Vernor, our first and only other Commander-in-Chief from Michigan, would have been pleased. I know I was.

Loyally,

Keith G. Harrison, Commander-in-Chief

The men who founded the United States Military Academy in 1802 little thought that, three-score years later, hundreds of the best-trained military men in America would go forth from its portals to take up the sword against one another. Nine of the forty-one men who were graduated from West Point in 1860 joined the Confederate army. The men of this class and that of 1861 became the drill-masters, and in many cases the famous leaders, of the Federal and Confederate armies. The cadet who stood third at graduation in 1860 was Horace Porter. He became second-lieutenant, lieutenant-colonel three years later, and brigadier general at the close of the war. He received the Congressional medal of honor for gallantry at Chickamauga, and later gained great honor as ambassador to France. Two other members, James H. Wilson and Wesley Merritt, fought their way to the top as cavalry leaders.

Both again were found at the front in the Spanish American War. The former was chief of the Cavalry Bureau in 1864 and commanded the assault and capture of Selma and Montgomery, Ala. He was major-general of volunteers in the Spanish-American War, commanded the column of British and American troops in the advance on Peking, and represented the United States army at the coronation of King Edward VII of England. General Wesley Merritt earned six successive promotions for gallantry as a cavalry leader—at Gettysburg, Yellow Tavern, Hawe's Shop, Five Forks, and other engagements—and was one of the three Union leaders to arrange for the surrender at Appomattox. He participated in several Indian campaigns, commanded the American troops in the Philippines, and was summoned from there to the aid of the American Peace Commission, in session in Paris.

Thank you to Douglas R Niermeyer, PCinC for submitting this four part series.
An Excerpt From:
Second Annual Meeting of
The Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States
Philadelphia,
October 20-21, 1886

The second annual meeting of the Commandery-in-Chief of the Order was held at the Hall of the Historical Society of PA, 13th and Locust Sts, Philadelphia, Wednesday, October 20, 1886, at 10 A.M. By command of Brevet major-General Rutherford B. Hayes U.S.V. Senior vice-Commander-in-Chief, Commanding.

The Commandery-in-Chief was called to order 10:15 a.m. in the hall of the Historical Society of PA by the Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief, Rutherford B. Hayes, commanding. At the request of the Senior Vice-commander-in-Chief, presiding, Chaplain H. Clay Trumbul, D.D., PA, invoked the divine blessing as follows:

“Our Father and our God, the years come and go, but thou changest not. Thou art ever the same. Thy were, thy love, and thy ministry of good, are today as always. Kept, by the mercy, through the round of another year, we stand together once more in thy presence, in the enjoyment of all the sacred memories of the past, of all the high privileges of the present and of all the holy hopes of the future; and gratefully werender thee thanks, and humbly we implore thy blessing.

Since last we stood together before thee in this assembly, thou have taken to thyself him who then presided over our deliberations and who had so largely the love and honor of all, besides ourselves, who recognized his worth and nobleness, and who were mindful of his eminent services in the preservation of our national life. As we sincerely mourn his loss, we heartily rejoice in the memory of his life-lived so courageously, so grandly, and with such patriotic fidelity even to its very close; and our prayer is that his example so far may be to us and others unfailingly an inspiration and an incentive.

And now we ask thy blessing upon our country, and upon all who represent its interests, or who are interested in its welfare. Bless the President of the United States. Bless those who counsel him. Bless those who make, and those who interpret, and those who execute, our laws. Bless all who are under our national authority.

Grant thy special blessing upon this gathering. Guide us, in all its deliberations and action. Bless all the constituencies represented here. Bless us as individuals. Grant unto us each and all a loving spirit of fidelity to our country and to thee. We ask all this in the name and for the sake, of our Lord Jesus Christ—who hath taught us to pray.”

The Recorder-in-Chief called the roll, and the companions named responded.

The Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief presiding spoke as follows:

Companions;
This meeting—the second annual meeting of the Commandery-in-Chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States was the first annual meeting since the death of General Hancock. The Commanderies of the several states, agreeably to a circular issued from the Headquarters, took appropriate action, published their proceedings, and placed a record thereof in their archives. The Commandery-in-Chief, it is assumed, will wish to take a similar course, and will cause to be prepared for publication a memorial of General Hancock which will be worthy of our Order and of its beloved and lamented Commander-in-Chief.

In the presence of many who served on most intimate terms with General Hancock during long years of severe and trying duty, I shall not attempt an adequate sketch of his life, services and character. I had not in the army the privilege of an acquaintance with him that was either extensive or intimate. He was my commander only during the last few weeks of the active work of the war. My relations with him from 1877 to 1881 were, however, in some interesting matters necessarily close and confidential. I cannot be mistaken as to the substantial and sterling elements of his character. If, when we make up our estimate of a public man conspicuous both as a soldier and in affairs, we are to think first and chiefly of his manhood, his integrity, his purity, his singleness of purpose and his unselfish devotion to duty, we can say truthfully of Hancock that he was through and through pure gold.

I will not on this occasion enter at large on the facts of his life.
During many years he was at the head of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. His presence, his prestige, his name, have given to this soldiers’ organization we know not how much of its prosperity, its interest, and its influence. His commanding figure and features—so impressive, inspiring and dignified—were the outward symbol of a character and of achievements which left nothing for the most exacting imagination to desire when seeking the ideal American soldier, patriot, and gentleman. One reference to his record as a soldier is enough for my present purpose. The single battle which, lost or won, humanly speaking, seemed destined to decide the great conflict, was Hancock’s opportunity. He was equal to the occasion. Henceforth Hancock and Gettysburg—Gettysburg and Hancock—are forever linked together in adamant. The name of our Commander-in-Chief will live in our annals as long as American history is known among men. Brave soldier—noble gentleman—beloved Companion—hail and farewell!

Companion Martin T. McMahon, NY, moved that the remarks of the Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief be entered on the Journal. The motion was unanimously adopted.

The Recorder-in-Chief submitted the following:

I have the honor to make the following report to the Commandery-in-Chief:

Number of Commanderies as of May 1, 1885 was 10. Number of Commanderies instituted and organized from May 1, 1885 to April 30, 1886 was 5. Total membership of the Order as of May 1, 1886 was 3,627.

The Treasurer-in-Chief submitted the following:

To the Commandery-in-Chief, I have the honor to present my annual report of the receipts and expenditures for the year ending October 19, 1886.

Receipts from Recorder-in-Chief during the year $3114.94. Expenditures paid fifty three vouchers during the year $2963.91. October 19, 1886 on hand in Importers and Traders Bank, NY $151.03. John J. Milhau, Treasurer-in-Chief. Examined, audited and found correct to October 19, 1886, Francis A. Walker of the Council-in-Chief.

The Recorder-in-Chief then read the following:

Union League House
Philadelphia, October 19, 1886

Colonel Jon P. Nicholson, Recorder-in-Chief of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

Sir: I have the honor to extend to the members of the Commandery-in-Chief of the Loyal Legion of the United States, the privileges of the League House during their stay in Philadelphia, and trust they will avail themselves of the same. The insignia of the Legion will be sufficient recognition for admission. Very truly yours, Edwin N. Benson, President.

Companion John M. Schofield, NY, spoke as follows:

Senior Vice-Commander-in-Chief:

I desire to nominate for the office of Commander-in-Chief of the Order Lieutenant-General Philip H. Sheridan. I base this nomination upon the broad principle that it is in exact harmony with the spirit of the Order. The Senior Companion of the Order who is eligible as a member of the Commandery-in-Chief, should, in my opinion, be chosen Commander-in-Chief. By senior I mean that officer who held the highest command, rendered the most valuable service, and received the highest rank as a recognition of that service, in the war for the preservation of the Union; that officer who, by the common consent of his fellow soldiers and of his countrymen, is regarded as the most eminent soldier among those who are eligible to the office of Commander-in-Chief.

I do not mean to say that special circumstances may not make it proper to depart from this rule at some future time. But so long as no special reasons exist for exceptional action, I hold that the principle upon which our Order is founded, requires the action I suggest. It would be entirely superfluous for me to say that my personal relations to General Sheridan and my estimate of his services, character, and ability would dictate the same course. I desire to base my nomination upon the broad ground I have stated.

Senior Vice Commander-in-Chief Hayes spoke as follows:

Companions,

It gives me very great pleasure to second the nomination of General Sheridan for Commander-in-Chief. It was my good fortune to serve under him during his brilliant and victorious campaign in the Shenandoah Valley. Last evening while we were enjoying a quiet, social reunion with our Companions of the PA Commandery, at the United Service Club, my mind was full of most interesting and vivid recollections of the scenes of that wonderful battle which occurred on that day just 24 years before—the battle of Cedar Creek—the battle in which the complete and disastrous defeat of the morning was changed by the Military genius and magnetic heroism of Sheridan into the glorious victory of the evening.

General Sheridan is precisely the man whose character, reputation, and achievements qualify him for Commander-in-Chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion.

Companion John M. Schofield, NY, spoke as follows:

If the Companions present, and especially the Senior Vice Commander-in-Chief, will indulge me in a personal remark, I desire to state that I have with great pleasure heard General Hayes say, on several occasions, that he esteems his honorable record as a soldier, though in a subordinate position, as an object of great pride and satisfaction far above anything connected with the great office he has since held, the important services to the country he has since rendered, and the high position he now occupies in the world because of that great office.

In short, that war record is what gives standing in the Military Order of the Loyal Legion. The graceful terms in which General Hayes has just seconded the nomination of General Sheridan cannot but be pleasing and gratifying to the Companions of the Order.

It was moved and seconded that the nominations be closed and Companion Philip H. Sheridan of Illinois had received the unanimous vote of the Commandery-in-Chief.

Present a quorum of Companions.

The Sr. Vice Commander-in-Chief invested...Companion Philip H. Sheridan, Illinois, as Commander-in-Chief of the Order.

The Commander-in-Chief presiding spoke as follows:

Companions of the Commandery-in-Chief,

Your action in choosing me the Commander-in-Chief of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States has come to me so unexpectedly that I can only return you my sincere and heart-felt thanks. I highly appreciate the great honor you have conferred on me and can only repay you by a diligent performance of the duties which may fall upon me.

I will do all I can to promote the best interests of the Order and to preserve its honor and high character.

The Sr. Vice Commander-in-Chief submitted the following: Resolved, that a committee of five companions be appointed to prepare a memorial of our late Commander-in-Chief Winfield Scott Hancock. The resolution was unanimously adopted. The Sr. Vice Commander moved the Commandery-in-Chief do now adjourn. The motion was adopted. Adjourned at 11:35 A.M. John P. Nicholson, Recorder-in-Chief

125th NATIONAL CONGRESS OF THE MILITARY ORDER OF THE LOYAL LEGION
Grand Rapids, Michigan 8-10 October 2010

The Michigan Commandery under the direction of Commander Bruce Butgereit is to be commended for organizing and conducting a truly monumental Congress. Although cooler weather had arrived in Michigan, we were welcomed by an unseasonably warm spell. On Friday, 8 October, following registration and a meeting of the Trustees of the Loyal Legion Memorial Fund, a welcome dinner took place in the Holiday Inn headquarters hotel where we were entertained by The Schubert Male Chorus which received rousing applause by the audience. Following the dinner and entertainment, a hospitality hour ensued in the Commander-in-Chief’s suite where Companions, Dames and guests added inches to their waistlines by consuming mounds of a great local ice cream and pie. For those who didn’t eat too much the evening before, a breakfast was available prior to the prompt opening of the Congress by Commander-in-Chief Keith Harrison.

In his usual efficient style, Commander-in-Chief Harrison wrapped up the business session in time for everyone to get to the noon luncheon. National President of the Dames, Rosemary Schaeffer also made certain that the Dames were not late for lunch. At their meeting, the Dames elected Monie Upham of the D.C. Society and daughter of Past Commander-in-Chief Bill Upham as their new National President. After lunch everyone climbed on the bus for a tour of Civil War historical sites where ceremonies were held to commemorate the event and those involved. Among the stops where ceremonies were conducted were the old soldiers home Civil War monument at the Veterans Home; the memorial tree site for Amos Watson; the Civil War monument in Memorial Park; and Lincoln Place. The Saturday evening formal banquet, “Dinner with the Lincolns”, featured Fred and Bonnie Priebe portraying President and Mrs. Lincoln. Once again, those Companions and Dames who had withstood all of the heavy activity of the day convened in the Commander-in-Chief’s suite for more of the “Taste of Michigan” ice cream, beverages, and snacks. After breakfast on Sunday morning Companions and Dames began their departure while some remained behind to visit the Gerald Ford Presidential Library Museum or engage in other sight seeing. In any case, everyone left with fond memories of a truly splendid Congress.
