

Physical Details

Material of Monument or base under a Sculpture or Cannon = Stone Concrete Metal Undetermined If known, name specific material (color of granite, marble, etc.) _____

SUVCW -- CIVIL WAR

Material of the Sculpture = Stone Concrete Metal Undetermined
If known, name specific material (color of granite, marble, etc.) _____
If the Sculpture is of metal, is it solid cast or "hollow?" _____

Material of Plaque or Historical Marker / Tablet = Aluminum and polymer plastics _____

Material of Cannon = Bronze Iron - Consult known Ordnance Listing to confirm Markings on muzzle = _____

Markings on Left Trunion _____ Right Trunion _____
Is inert ammunition a part of the Memorial? If so, describe _____

Approximate Dimensions (indicate unit of measure) - taken from tallest / widest points

Monument or Base: Height 3 1/2 ft Width 3 ft Depth 2 1/2 ft or Diameter _____
Sculpture: Height _____ Width _____ Depth _____ or Diameter _____

For Memorials with multiple Sculptures, please record this information on a separate sheet of paper for each statue and attach to this form. Please describe the "pose" of each statue and any weapons/implements involved (in case your photos become separated from this form). Thank you!

Markings/Inscriptions (on stone-work / metal-work of monument, base, sculpture)

Maker or Fabricator mark / name? If so, give name & location found _____

The "Dedication Text" is formed: cut into material raised up from material face

Record the text (indicate any separation if on different sides) Please use additional sheet if necessary.

See attached for text

Environmental Setting

(The general vicinity and immediate locale surrounding a memorial can play a major role in its overall condition.)

Type of Location

- | | | |
|---|---|--|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Cemetery | <input type="checkbox"/> Park | <input type="checkbox"/> Plaza/Courtyard |
| <input type="checkbox"/> "Town Square" | <input type="checkbox"/> Post Office | <input type="checkbox"/> School |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Municipal Building | <input type="checkbox"/> State Capitol | Other: _____ |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Courthouse | <input type="checkbox"/> College Campus | _____ |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Traffic Circle | <input type="checkbox"/> Library | _____ |

Surface Coating

Does there appear to be a coating? ___ Yes No ___ Unable to determine

If known, identify type of coating.

___ Gilded ___ Painted ___ Varnished ___ Waxed ___ Unable to determine

Is the coating in good condition? ___ Yes ___ No ___ Unable to determine

Basic Surface Condition Assessment (check one)

In your opinion, what is the general appearance or condition of the Memorial? Well maintained ___

Would benefit from treatment ___ In urgent need of treatment ___ Unable to determine

Overall Description

Briefly describe the Memorial (affiliation / overall condition & any concern not already touched on) .

Supplemental Background Information

In addition to your on-site survey, any additional information you can provide on the described Memorial will be welcomed. Please label each account with its source (author, title, publisher, date, pages). Topics include any reference to the points listed on this questionnaire, plus any previous conservation treatments - or efforts to raise money for treatment. Thank you.

Inspector Identification

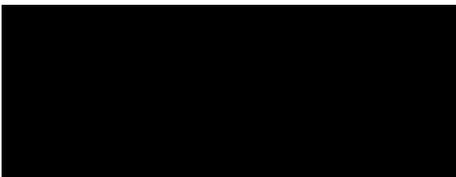

Date of On-site Survey 04/23/2012

Walter E Busch

What Order or Organization is submitter a member of? US Grant Camp

Please send this completed form to

Walt Busch, PDC, Chair

Thank you for your help, and attention to detail. SONS OF UNION V

CIVIL WAR VETERANS OF THE National Civil War Memorials Committee

Missouri's Civil War

Walnut Grove Cemetery

Sisters & Brothers

The 37th Illinois Volunteer Infantry known as the "Illinois Greyhounds," fought in the Pea Ridge and Prairie Grove campaigns in 1862. This famous regiment's first post was Boonville, where part of the regiment wintered in 1861-62. Captain William P. Black was sightseeing in late October, 1861, and had this to say in a letter home:

"Boonville is a very pretty place, lapped & almost hidden around the hills which all along skirt the Missouri. Buildings mostly are good & it has a beautiful cemetery with the prettiest monument in it I ever saw, a statue of twin sisters, in marble, some 4 ft. high. The chaplain, Quartermaster & I were riding out last evening when we came on this place & felt well repaid by it."

The stone that Black described marks the grave of Kate Tracy, and it stands on the east side of the cemetery. He was wrong. The stone does not depict sisters, but rather Kate's image is paired with a figure that represents a Greek goddess.

Story continued on right panel.

[Insert Graphic Map showing grave locations of Thomas W. Nelson; J.F. Gmelich; John Cosgrove; Lt. Col David Wear; David Barton' Kate Tracy; Dr. William Quarles; John A. Hayn; Col. Robert McCulloch; Charles E. Leonard]

[Center]

The Walnut Grove Cemetery was founded in 1852 when 4 acres were set aside in a grove of walnut trees. During the Civil War graves of battle casualties were added to the cemetery, and over the years, so were graves of many veterans. Private histories mention Walnut Grove as a hiding place and watch for approaching enemy on the old Rocheport Road.

[Insert Logo of the MCWHF: "Missouri's Civil War 1861-1865"]

There are important Civil War figures buried in Walnut Grove. First and foremost is Confederate Gen. Robert McCulloch, whose biography appears in the right column. Also buried here is Dr. William Montgomery Quarles, a Boonville physician who fought for the Missouri State Guard at the First Battle of Boonville, June 17, 1861. The State Guard was a body of men organized under the authority of the state that fought along side Confederate forces in 1861. Dr. Quarles, 30 years old, was killed in action at the battle, five miles east of here. John A. Hayn served as adjutant to a company of the Boonville Home Guard (Union), which in 1861 fortified the old state fairgrounds on East Morgan Street. At the Second Battle of Boonville, on September 13, 1861 at the fairgrounds, Hayn was one of two men on the Union side killed in action. He was shot in the head when he stood up behind the Union breastworks, and he died instantly.

Charles E. Leonard was a member of a prominent unionist family that founded Cooper County's Ravenswood Farm in the 1840s. In 1862, Charles Leonard enlisted a company of infantry for the 52nd Regiment, Missouri Enrolled Militia (Union). In October, 1863, he fought with the 7th Missouri State Militia Cavalry at Tipton, Missouri, during Shelby's 1863 Raid. A graduate of Kemper Military Academy in Boonville and the University of Missouri, Charles died in 1916 and was interred here. Colonel David Wear, originally from Otterville in southern Cooper County, was Colonel of the 52nd Regiment, and later a captain in the 9th Regiment, Provisional Enrolled Missouri Militia. In this capacity he fought for the Union during Shelby's Raid, in actions at Boonville, Jonesborough and Marshall, October 11-13, 1863. After the Civil War, David Wear became an attorney in Boonville and St. Louis, and in the latter place was active in the dry goods business of his brother James Hutchinson Wear. Presidents George H.W. Bush and George W. Bush are direct descendants of James Wear, who also served in Boonville's 52nd Missouri Enrolled Militia.

Other notable burials include: J.F. Gmelich, a veteran of the Missouri State Guard who fought at the First Battle of Boonville, was Missouri's Lt. Governor from 1909 to 1914. John Cosgrove, a veteran of the 14th Missouri Cavalry [sic] (Union), was a U.S. Congressman in 1883-1885. Both Gmelich and Cosgrove served on Walnut Grove's first official cemetery board. Walnut Grove Cemetery is also the resting place for David Barton (1783-1837), who was one of Missouri's first U.S. Senators. Barton's remains were brought here from Sunset Hills Cemetery when Walnut Grove was first established.

In 1901 an extensive expansion of the cemetery was designed by George Kessler, who would later design Forest Park for the St. Louis World Fair in 1904. This new design doubled the size of the cemetery.

[Picture of goatee'd man in Confederate uniform]

Black Bob

Col. Robert McCulloch was a native of Virginia who settled in Cooper County in 1835. When the Civil War began, McCulloch fought with the Missouri State Guard, and he recruited a battalion of cavalry that would form the nucleus of the famous Second Missouri Cavalry (C.S.A.). The Second Cavalry fought for most of the war east of the Mississippi as part of legendary General Nathan Bedford Forrest's Confederate cavalry. McCulloch was one of Forrest's senior commanders and is credited with saving Forrest's life during a battle at Okoloma, Mississippi. The Second Cavalry, with "Black Bob" McCulloch at its head, participated in the battles at Holly Springs and Harrisburg, Mississippi, in the affair at Fort Pillow, Tennessee and in Forrest's 1864 raid on Memphis, among many other actions. At the close of the war, McCulloch as head of a brigade fought in Selma, Alabama during Wilson's 1865 Alabama Raid. After surrendering, McCulloch returned to his life in Boonville.

Black Bob's nickname derives from the fact that his first cousin, Robert A. McCulloch of Boonville, was a subordinate officer to Black Bob during most of the Civil War. To distinguish the two, troopers referred to Robert A. as "white-haired Bob" (he was a redhead turning prematurely gray) and to their colonel as "black-haired Bob."

Sisters & Brothers (continued)

William Black was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his actions at the Battle of Pea Ridge, Arkansas, March 7, 1862. When John Charles Black of the 37th Illinois received his MOH for heroism at the Battle of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, William and John became the first brothers in American history to be so conspicuously honored.

[Insert picture of plantation style house with text: "The 1843 home of the Thomas Nelson family, "Forest Hill," stands just north of here on Locust Street. It was here that Boonville mayor James O'Brian officially surrendered the City to Union General Nathaniel Lyon after the first battle of Boonville.]

Sources: Sickles, John, (2006 Mar/Apr), The Second Missouri Cavalry, CSA, Military Images Magazine; McVicker, Maryellen, "Reflections of Change: Death and Cemeteries in the Boonslick Region of Missouri". Diss. University of Missouri Columbia; Niermeyer, Douglas, Biography of David Walker Wear. Web Articles. <http://www.suvcw.org/mollus/art048.htm>

[Footers]

Learn more at www.mocivilwar.org

Copyright © 2010 Missouri's Civil War Heritage Foundation, Inc.

[Logo: Boonville Missouri Tourism Commission]

Made possible by a grant from the Boonville Tourism Commission.

Walnut Grove Cemetery

Missouri's CIVIL WAR

John A. Hay

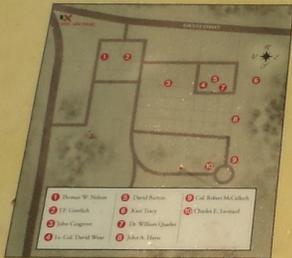

The 19th Annual Missouri Historical Society's "Black Confederates" tour of the Walnut Grove Cemetery in Boonville, Missouri, on October 10, 2010. The tour was led by Dr. Robert McCulloch, who pointed out the graves of John A. Hay and other Union soldiers buried in the cemetery.

Boonville is a very pretty place, located on the banks of the Mississippi River. It is a beautiful cemetery with the graves of many Union soldiers. The graves are marked with a simple cross or a small monument. The graves are arranged in rows, and the cemetery is well-maintained.

The name that Black described marks the grave of John A. Hay, and it stands on the east side of the cemetery. He was serving the Union during the Civil War, but when he was captured, he was taken to a camp where he was held as a prisoner of war.

See caption on right page.

- 1 General W. Nelson
- 2 David Barton
- 3 Col. Robert McCulloch
- 4 J. E. Gmelich
- 5 John Hay
- 6 Charles E. Leonard
- 7 John Cooper
- 8 Dr. William Quillen
- 9 Col. David West
- 10 John A. Hay

Learn more at www.mocivhear.org

Copyright © 2010 Missouri's Civil War Heritage Foundation, Inc.

Made possible by a grant from the Boonville Tourism Commission.

Black Bob

Col. Robert McCulloch was a native of Virginia who settled in Cooper County in 1818. When the Civil War began, McCulloch fought with the Missouri State Guard and he received a battalion of cavalry that would form the nucleus of the Second Missouri Cavalry (22nd Regt.). The Second Cavalry fought at most of the major battles of the Missouri War.

McCulloch was one of Farnsworth's senior commanders and is credited with saving Farnsworth's life during a battle at Doniphan, Missouri. The Second Cavalry, with "Black Bob" McCulloch at its head, participated in the battles at Holly Springs and Hardscrabble, Mississippi in this affair at Fort Pillow, Tennessee and in Farnsworth's 1864 raid on Memphis, writing many other actions. At the close of the war, McCulloch was made a brigadier general in the 9th Missouri Cavalry during the war's 1865 National War. After surrendering, McCulloch returned to his life in Boonville.

Black Bob's nickname derives from the fact that he had black horses. Robert A. McCulloch of Boonville, was a substitute officer for Black Bob during most of the Civil War. To distinguish the two, troops referred to Robert A. as "white-haired Bob" (he was a red-head during penitentiary days) and to their color as "black-haired Bob."

Sisters & Brothers

(continued)

John Black was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his actions in the Battle of Fort Fisher, Arkansas, March 7, 1862. When John Charles Black of the 5th Missouri Cavalry was killed in action in the Battle of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, William and John became the first brothers in Arkansas history to be so honorably honored.

The 1843 home of the Thomas Nelson family, "Forest Hill" stands just north of here on Locust Street. It was here that Boonville mayor James O'Brien officially surrendered the City to Union General Nathaniel Lyon after the first battle of Boonville.

Sources: Scales, John. (2008). Missouri's Second Missouri Cavalry. USA Military Images Magazine. McCulloch, Marshall. "Reflections of Change: Death and Commemoration in the Bootheel Region of Missouri." The University of Missouri-Kansas City. November. Douglas, Biography of David Walker West. Web Archive. <http://www.archive.org/details/biographyofdavidwalkerwest>

Walnut Grove Cemetery

Missouri's CIVIL WAR

John & Bobbie

The John & Bobbie Soldiers Soldiers' Home at the Walnut Grove Cemetery in Boonville, Missouri, was built in 1904. The home was built to house the families of Union soldiers who died in the war. The home was built on the site of the Walnut Grove Cemetery, which was founded in 1863. The home was built on the site of the Walnut Grove Cemetery, which was founded in 1863.

The home was built on the site of the Walnut Grove Cemetery, which was founded in 1863. The home was built on the site of the Walnut Grove Cemetery, which was founded in 1863.

The home was built on the site of the Walnut Grove Cemetery, which was founded in 1863. The home was built on the site of the Walnut Grove Cemetery, which was founded in 1863.

Learn more at www.mocivilwar.org

Learn more at www.mocivilwar.org

Copyright © 2010 Missouri's Civil War Heritage Foundation, Inc.

The Walnut Grove Cemetery was founded in 1863 when a acre was set aside in a grove of walnut trees. During the Civil War graves of battle casualties were added to the cemetery and over the years, so were graves of many veterans. Pictorial histories mention Walnut Grove as a fitting place and watch for approaching enemy on the old Boonville Road.

There are important Civil War figures buried in Walnut Grove. First and foremost is Confederate Gen. Robert McCulloch, whose biography appears in the right column. Also buried here is Dr. William Montgomery Quaker, a Boonville physician who fought for the Missouri State Guard at the First Battle of Boonville, June 12, 1861. The State Guard was a body of men organized under the authority of the state that fought along side Confederate forces in 1861. Dr. Quaker, 30 year old, was killed in action at the battle, five miles east of here. John A. Hay served as adjutant to a company of the Boonville Home Guard (Union), which in 1861 fortified the old state fairgrounds on East Morgan Street. At the Second Battle of Boonville, on September 13, 1861 at the fairgrounds, Hay was one of two men on the Union side killed in action. He was shot in the head when he stood up behind the Union breastworks, and he died instantly.

Charles E. Leonard was a member of a prominent unionist family that founded Cooper County's Ravenwood Farm in the 1840s. In 1862, Charles Leonard enlisted a company of infantry for the 52nd Regiment, Missouri Enrolled Militia (Union). In October, 1863, he fought with the 7th Missouri State Militia

Cavalry at Tapscott, Missouri, during Shelby's 1863 Raid. A graduate of Keiser Military Academy in Boonville and the University of Missouri, Charles died in 1916 and was interred here. Colonel David Wear, originally from Knoxville in southern Cooper County, was Colonel of the 52nd Regiment, and later a captain in the 7th Regiment, Provisional Enrolled Missouri Militia.

In this capacity he fought for the Union during Shelby's Raid, in actions at Boonville, Jonesborough, and Marshall, October 11-13, 1863. After the Civil War, David Wear became an attorney in Boonville and St. Louis, and in the later place was active in the dry goods business of his brother James. Hutchinson Wear, President George H. W. Bush and George W. Bush are direct descendants of James Wear, who also served in Boonville's 52nd Missouri Enrolled Militia.

Other notable burials include J. E. Gindick, a veteran of the Missouri State Guard who fought at the First Battle of Boonville, was Missouri's 14th Governor from 1899 to 1914. John Cosgrove, a veteran of the 14th Missouri Cavalry (Union), was a U.S. Congressman in 1883-1885. Both Gindick and Cosgrove served on Walnut Grove's first official cemetery board. Walnut Grove Cemetery is also the resting place for David Barton (1783-1857), who was one of Missouri's first U.S. Senators. Barton's remains were brought here from Sunset Hills Cemetery when Walnut Grove was first established.

In 1901 an extensive expansion of the cemetery was designed by George Kesler, who would later design Forest Park for the St. Louis World Fair in 1904. This new design doubled the size of the cemetery.

Black Bob

Col. Robert McCulloch was a native of Virginia who settled in Cooper County in 1825. When the Civil War began, McCulloch fought with the Missouri State Guard and he recruited a battalion of men that would form the nucleus of the famous General Missouri Cavalry (C.S.A.). The Second Cavalry fought for most of the war and at the Missouri part of the Missouri General National Cavalry (Confederate) in the Battle of Boonville. McCulloch was one of General's senior cavalry. McCulloch, who was of French-Scottish descent and is credited with saving Powell's the during a battle at Clinton, Missouri. The Second Cavalry, with "Black Bob" McCulloch at the head, participated in the battles at Holly Springs and Warrenton, Missouri in the fall of 1864. In November and in January, 1865, McCulloch led a brigade fought in Selma, Alabama during Wilson's 1865 Alabama Raid. After surrendering, McCulloch returned to his life in Boonville.

Black Bob's nickname stems from the fact that his first name, Robert A. McCulloch (Robert) was a substitute for Black Bob during most of the Civil War. To distinguish the two, troops referred to Robert A. as "white-haired Bob" (he was a well-known sunny prematurely gray) and to their captain as "black-haired Bob".

Samuel S. Brodus

Learn more at www.mocivilwar.org

Samuel Black was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his service in the Battle of Pea Ridge, Arkansas, March 7, 1862. When John Charles Black of the 2nd Missouri entered the 1861 U.S. Congress in the Battle of Pea Ridge, Arkansas, William and Carl, because the two brothers in American history to be so exceptionally honored.

The 1843 home of the Thomas Hodge family, "Forest Hill" stands just north of here on Locust Street. It was here that Doornville major, James O'Brien officially surrendered the City to Union General Nathaniel Lyon after the first battle of Boonville.

Source: Sibley, John (2006) Missouri: The Second Missouri Cavalry, U.S. Military Images Magazine, McCulloch, Marcellus. "Reflections of 'Charge, Death and Captivity in the Boonville Region of Missouri'." The University of Missouri-Joplin, "Veterans' Heritage: Biography of David Walker Ware, With Anecd. <http://www.mocivilwar.org>

Made possible by a grant from the Boonville Tourism Commission.

Walnut Grove Cemetery

Missouri's

CIVIL WAR

Sisters & Brothers

The 37th Illinois Volunteer Infantry, known as the "Illinois Green Berets," fought in the Pea Ridge and Prairie Grove campaigns in 1862. This famous regiment's first post was Boonville, where part of the regiment wintered in 1861-62. Captain William E. Black was garrisoning it, late October, 1861, and had this to say in a letter home:

"Boonville is a very pretty place, hipped & almost hidden around the hills which all along skirt the Missouri. Buildings mostly are good & a few a beautiful cemetery with the prettiest monument in it I ever saw, a statue of cross stones at middle, were 4 ft. high. The chaplain, Quartermaster & I were riding out late evening when we came on this place & felt well repaid by it."

The stone that Black described marks the grave of Kate Tracy, and it stands on the east side of the cemetery. He was wrong. The stone does not depict a cross, but rather Kate's image is paired with a figure that represents a Greek goddess.

View continued on right panel.

Learn more at www.mocivilwar.org

The Walnut Grove Cemetery was founded in 1852 when 4 acres were set aside in a grove of walnut trees. During the Civil War graves of battle casualties were added to the cemetery, and over the years, so were graves of many veterans. Private histories mention Walnut Grove as a hiding place and watch for approaching enemy on the old Rochester Road.

There are important Civil War figures buried in Walnut Grove. First and foremost is Confederate Gen. Robert McCulloch, whose biography appears in the right column. Also buried here is Dr. William Montgomery Quaker, a Boonville physician who fought for the Missouri State Guard at the First Battle of Boonville, June 17, 1861. The State Guard was a body of men organized under the authority of the state that fought along side Confederate forces in 1861. Dr. Quaker, 30 year old, was killed in action at the battle, five miles east of here. John A. Hays served as adjutant to a company of the Boonville Home Guard (Union), which in 1861 fortified the old state fairgrounds on East Morgan Street. At the Second Battle of Boonville, on September 13, 1861 at the fairgrounds, Hays was one of two men on the Union side killed in action. He was shot in the head when he stood up behind the Union breastworks, and he died instantly.

Charles E. Leonard was a member of a prominent unionist family that founded Cooper County's Ravenswood Farm in the 1840s. In 1862, Charles Leonard enlisted a company of infantry for the 52nd Regiment, Missouri Enrolled Militia (Union). In October, 1863, he fought with the 7th Missouri State Militia

Cavalry at Tipton, Missouri, during Shelby's 1863 Raid. A graduate of Kemper Military Academy in Boonville and the University of Missouri, Charles died in 1916 and was interred here. Colonel David Wear, originally from Ospreyville in southern Cooper County, was Colonel of the 52nd Regiment, and later a captain in the 9th Regiment, Provisional Enrolled Missouri Militia. In this capacity he fought for the Union during Shelby's Raid, in actions at Boonville, Jonesborough and Marshall, October 11-13, 1863. After the Civil War, David Wear became an attorney in Boonville and St. Louis, and in the latter place was active in the dry goods business of his brother James Hutchinson Wear. Presidents George H. W. Bush and George W. Bush are direct descendants of James Wear, who also served in Boonville's 52nd Missouri Enrolled Militia.

Other notable burials include: J. F. Gmelch, a veteran of the Missouri State Guard who fought at the First Battle of Boonville, was Missouri's Lt. Governor from 1909 to 1914. John Congrow, a veteran of the 14th Missouri Cavalry (Union), was a U. S. Congressman in 1883-1885. Both Gmelch and Congrow served on Walnut Grove's first official cemetery board. Walnut Grove Cemetery is also the resting place for David Burton (1783-1837), who was one of Missouri's first U.S. Senators. Burton's remains were brought here from Sunset Hills Cemetery when Walnut Grove was first established.

In 1901 an extensive expansion of the cemetery was designed by George Kessler, who would later design Forest Park for the St. Louis World Fair in 1904. This new design doubled the size of the cemetery.

Black Bob

Col. Robert McCulloch was a native of Virginia who settled in Cooper County in 1835. When the Civil War began, McCulloch fought with the Missouri State Guard, and he recruited a battalion of cavalry that would form the nucleus of the famous Second Missouri Cavalry (C.S.A.). The Second Cavalry fought for most of the war east of the Mississippi as part of legendary General Nathan Bedford Forrest's Confederate cavalry. McCulloch was one of Forrest's senior commanders and is credited with saving Forrest's life during a battle at Okolona, Mississippi. The Second Cavalry, with "Black Bob" McCulloch at its head, participated in the battles at Holly Springs and Harroburg, Mississippi, in the aftermath of Fort Pillow, Tennessee and in Forrest's 1864 raid on Memphis, among many other actions. At the close of the war, McCulloch, as head of a brigade fought in Selma, Alabama during Wacker's 1865 Alabama Raid. After surrendering, McCulloch returned to his life in Boonville.

Black Bob's nickname derives from the fact that his first cousin, Robert A. McCulloch of Boonville, was a subordinate officer to Black Bob during most of the Civil War. To distinguish the two, troops referred to Robert A. as "white-haired Bob" (he was a redhead turning prematurely gray) and to their colonel as "black-haired Bob."

Sisters & Brothers

Governor William Black was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his actions at the Battle of the Bluff, Arkansas, March 7, 1862. When John Charles Black of the 37th Illinois received his MCH for heroism at the Battle of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, William and John became the first brothers in American history to be so conspicuously honored.

The 1843 home of the Thomas Nelson family, "Forest Hill," stands just north of here on Locust Street. It was here that Boonville mayor James O'Brien officially surrendered the City to Union General Nathaniel Lyon after the first battle of Boonville.

Seeover Scales, John, D186 Mar/April, The Second Missouri Cavalry, CSA, Military Ancestry Magazine; M.V. Vickie, Maryellen, "Reflections of Change: Death and Cemetery in the Bootheel Region of Missouri", Dies, University of Missouri-Columbia, Muncy, Doug, Biography of David Walker Wear, Web Article, <http://www.wear.org/boonville0408.htm>

