"I am rather low spirited since our army have been defeated here lately about 12 miles above this camp, where we were badly disappointed, we were all too sure of whipping them but no. We fought over three hours under heavy fire all the time but at last their firing began to get too heavy for us, at the same time dismounting one of our pieces of cannon. We were compelled to fall back and our men began to scatter which caused confusion and we had a general stampede."
